

SHANA PM

Meet the newest face of R&B from Columbia, South Carolina....Shana PM

BIO:

So let's just get into it, lol.

I was born and raised in a small-town outside of Orangeburg, SC. My father and mother kept me in the church at a very young age and so naturally this is where I found my love for singing, the church choir. I think I was around the age of 7 or 8 years old, I think lol. I just know I loved the way the music made me feel. Since then I've been hooked on singing and wrote my first gospel song at 14 years old...

In 2005, I begin to pursue the idea of having a professional career in the music industry as a Singer/Songwriter. Later that year I was signed to a local label in Charleston, SC. That experience was one of the highlights of my life, but very quickly became one of the low points in my life. My dreams ended up being crushed very quickly. Simply put we just weren't a fit, period. It took a while but I slowly learned to appreciate that experience and moved on with my life.

Early 2012, I was finally released from my contract and became a newly independent artist. It wasn't until a year later that I picked back up the pen and allowed myself to dream again. Since then I've been re-discovering myself as an artist and being a mom to the best son in the world, Ahmir.

Sooo now I'm ready to share my life experiences with you through music. Some of my biggest musical influences are Monica, Keyshia Cole, Faith Evans, and Janet Jackson. They continue to inspire me as artists and mothers.

This is my bio, short and sweet! We'll get into more deets later okurrrr!

I love you Dad, Mom, Son, and Baby-big Brother. XOXO
